ECO-JOURNALISM AND SECURITY

Moses Werror, OPMRC chairman, interview with the authors, 9 May 2006.
Daniel Menufandu, OPMRC members, interview with the authors, 9 May 2006.
Peter Hamadi, OPMRC members, and interview with the authors, 9 May 2006.
Reuben Hamadi, OPMRC members, interview with the authors, 9 May 2006.

Patrick Matbob is a lecturer in journalism at Divine Word University, Madang, PNG. He was a previously a journalist with the Tok Pisin language Wantok Niuspepa and later worked with The Times of PNG and the Post-Courier newspapers.

Dr Evangelia Papoutsaki is former head of the Communication Arts Department at Divine Word University. She has been on the editorial team of the refereed journal Contemporary PNG Studies and is co-editor of Media, Information and Development in Papua New Guinea (DWU Press, Madang, 2006). She has now joined the School of Communication, Unitec, in Auckland as a senior lecturer.

pmatbob@dwu.ac.pg
papoutsaki@yahoo.co.uk

'PUBLIC RIGHT TO KNOW' SPECIAL EDITIONS

The Australian Centre for Independent Journalism (ACIJ) is a Journalism Research Centre attached to the University of Technology, Sydney. The ACIJ is fully committed to the principle that democratic societies require independent, critical and investigative journalism of the highest standard. Each year the ACIJ hosts the Public Right To Know conference. It brings journalists, academics and students together to discuss media issues and the public right to know. Papers from the 2002 and 2003 conferences have been published in the UTS Law Journal and Pacific Journalism Review respectively. The 2004 papers were published in Australian Journalism Review.

Copies are available through the ACIJ.
Please email acij@uts.edu.au or visit the website at www.acij.uts.edu.au
University of Technology, 755 Harris Street, Ultimo NSW.
P.O. Box 123, Broadway NSW 2007, Sydney, Australia
Ph: +61 2 9514 2488 Fax: +61 2 9281 2976 email: acij@uts.edu.au