ECO-JOURNALISM AND SECURITY

Professor Ian Spellerberg is director of the Isaac Centre for Nature Conservation at Lincoln University, New Zealand.

Dr Graeme Buchan is associate professor of environmental physics in Soil Sciences and Environmental Education at Lincoln University.

Nick Early is a former journalist, and the director of Restore New Zealand Ltd., a PR/communications company, based in Christchurch. An earlier version of this article was first presented at the Environment Institute of Australia and New Zealand Conference in Christchurch, 29 March-1 April 2005.

Speller@Lincoln.ac.nz

Buchan@Lincoln.ac.nz

Nick@Restore.co.nz

The Journalism Education Association of New Zealand (JEANZ), with the support of AUT University’s School of Communication Studies, is hosting the 2nd joint JEANZ/JEA conference in Auckland, New Zealand, December 4-7, 2006.

KEYNOTE SPEAKER

Roy Greenslade, professor of journalism at City University, London, since 2003, will be one of the keynote speakers at the conference. He is a leading commentator and columnist on the media, and is currently writing for the Daily Telegraph. As a journalist he rose to the highest levels of management in a career taking in The Sun, the London Sunday Times, and culminating in the editorship of the Daily Mirror.

WEBSITE

http://artsweb.aut.ac.nz/journalism_conference/

Conference Convenor: Allison Oosterman Email: aoosterm@aut.ac.nz